

Hollins University Departments of Film and Gender & Women's Studies Present:

Please join us for a presentation by Dr. Maggie Hennefeld on “Cinema’s First Nasty Women,” a groundbreaking compendium depicting rarely seen silent films about feminist protest, anarchic slapstick destruction, and suggestive gender play. Acclaimed by the New York Times as a “triumph of scholarship,” the project is a major contribution to cinema history by one of our most important and innovative feminist film scholars. The event will be introduced by Nathan Lee, Assistant Professor of Film, and is presented by the Departments of Film and Gender & Women’s Studies.

SPEAKER:
MAGGIE
HENNEFELD

Dr. Hennefeld is McKnight Presidential Fellow and Associate Professor of Cultural Studies and Comparative Literature at the University of Minnesota

Thursday
November 9th
6:00 p.m.

Wetherill Visual Arts Center
Niederer Auditorium

HOLLINS
UNIVERSITY